Instructions:

- Hand out 1 card per student. If you have fewer students than cards, hand out 2 cards to some students.

- Set a stopwatch (on your mobile phone)

- One student starts by reading the question on his or her card.

- The student with the matching answer quickly reads the answer and then reads out the question on the same card.

- Goal of the game: to complete the whole domino race as quickly as possible. The teacher writes down the time it took to complete the race. In one of the following lessons, the class tries to beat this record (or plays against another class.)

In this set the learners can choose between a Yes and a NO answer, according to their true experiences. Point this out to the students and encourage them to give authentic, true answers — it adds some personalization to the grammar and vocab activities and helps the learners link the new language to their true experiences — and networks in their brains.
