What a great Weekend

Last weekend I went to the ONSEN-Land.

It was very crazy. I rode on a big fat long ~~Hotdog~~ Hotdog, I swam with a little locust and I sang a song with the potato men.

My parents wasn't with me. I was with my friends. After a long lunch (It was very yummy) we went to the One-Eye-portal.

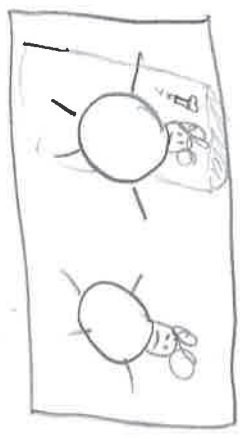

In one minute we traveled around the globe.

One of my friends ~~left~~ left our group and took a shower chocolate-ice cream. Now the day was over and we went home.

On the next day in the morning we were very hungry. So we went to the big chocolate factory. But we were so long in the factory that we forgot to leave and so we were locked in the chocolate factory. After the next night we were very fat because the chocolate taste sooo good. This was a very funny (for crazy) weekend!

ooo Sounds great!!!

@ My favourite cake

Ingredients:

130g	butter
110g	icing sugar
6	Egg yolk
6	Egg white
130g	chocolate
130g	flour
110g	granulated sugar
150g	apricot jam

For the "Sachatorfe" I preheat oven to 180°C. Then I melt the semisweet chocolate in a hot water bath while stirring. I do allow to cool. Mix the butter, icing sugar and vanilla sugar. Mix it until frothy and add the yolk one after the other. Then I beat the egg whites with the sugar until firm, sift the flour. And now I carefully fold in the egg white and flour alternatively into the chocolate mixture. After that I grease the cake tin with butter and dust with flour. At the end I fill in the mass and bake in the oven for 60 minutes.
